Hatchery opening lures hundreds

by Jerry Grozelle

The attendance at the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association Fish Hatchery open house was much higher than any of the organizers had anticipated.

"It was phenomenal," said HHOA President Pat Kennedy. "I think there were over 300 people there."

Curiosity was not the only draw. Kennedy said that more than 100 membership applications were picked up by people interested in the Association.

"We're excited about the interest the community has and the positive response to the hatchery project," Kennedy said.

Several people also expressed an interest in volunteer work at the hatchery.

The hatchery's first crop of rainbow and lake trout has been stocked in numerous Haliburton County water bodies as well as some as far afield as South Lake, between Huntsville and North Bay. More than 30,000 fish have been raised at the hatchery. Over the next couple of weeks some renovations and improvements will be made to the Victoria/Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson and Minister of Natural Resources John Snobelen released 400 rainbow trout fingerlings into the Drag River east of Haliburton Friday. The minister was here to tour the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association fish hatchery.

Grade three student Michael Toye jumps for joy at the thought of helping someone. Archie Stouffer Elementary School hosted a Jump Rope for Heart last Thursday, for students in Grades three to eight. Students gathered pledges and then jumped rope for two hours. The money raised goes to the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

Performing Arts Centre in the limelight

"The show must go on", is a popular phrase from the world of theatre. The show will go on is a new phrase that will be used in Haliburton County as the Performing Arts Centre has been given the limelight to go ahead.

The Haliburton Highlands Performing Arts Society decided to move forward with the construction of the new performing arts centre, as a part of the current renovations to Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. It is anticipated that construction will begin in the fall and should be complete by the spring of 1999.

The committee has undergone an extensive fund-raising campaign in the hope of raising adequate funds to pay for a theatre facility. As the high school was already scheduled to undergo renovations that included the construction of a new triple gymnasium, the old gym was available for conversion to a performing arts space, if the group could raise $200,000.

It was decided that the best way to raise the required funds would be to "sell" seats for donations of $750 and $5,000. To date 174 seats have been purchased, and, with additional donations, the group is prepared to move the construction project to centre stage.

"This is a real start," said Director Caryl Moulton. "This won't build us the ultimate theatre, but it will build a theatre we can build on."

The Haliburton Highlands Performing Arts Society is made up of five directors. Linda Beachli, Gary Brohman, David Gray, Caryl Moulton and Susan Wilson along with invaluable volunteers such as David Bishop, and Professor David Pequegnat have brought the project to fruition.

Now, all that remains is to choose a name for the facility. The society has created a Help to Raise the Curtain, Name the New Theatre contest.

The winner will have a seat named in his or her honour, with an engraved plaque on the back of the seat recognizing his or her contribution. The contest will run until September, when construction is slated to begin. (For an artist's concept of the new theatre see drawings on page 25.)

hatchery operation, before a new crop of rainbow trout will take up residence.

Among the last of the fish to be stocked were 400 rainbow trout, which were put in the Drag River, east of Haliburton, by Natural Resources Minister John Snobelen and Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson Friday afternoon.

The facility boasts more than 50 volunteers, who feed and nurture the fish, raising them to fingerling size (six to eight inches) before they are stocked. It is a labour intensive operation. Along with the numerous feeding times each day, the water temperature and flow must be monitored. The volunteers take pride in their participation and it shows in the success of the project.

Anyone interested in becoming involved should contact Larry Hewitt, Chair of the Hatchery Committee, at 754-1162 or Heidi Williams at 286-6759.

Natural Resources minister tours new hatchery

Natural Resources Minister John Snobelen got a first-hand look at a partnership in action when he came to Haliburton on Friday. Snobelen paid a visit to the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association Fish Hatchery after officially opening the 1998 provincial parks season at a ceremony in Algonquin Park.

Snobelen toured the hatchery facility, and met many of the volunteers who operate it, as well as HHOA executive officials, directors and members. After the hatchery tour with former Natural Resources Minister and Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson, who is now Chair of the Management Board of Cabinet, they went to a site on the Drag River just east of the Village of Haliburton and stocked some of the rainbow trout that were raised in the hatchery.

Snobelen was impressed with the dedication of the hatchery volunteers and commended the efforts of all the partners in the project.

"I think the sweat equity gives the local people a sense of ownership," Snobelen said.

Kinmount fund-raiser tops expectations

The 1998 Kinmount Heritage Park fund-raising dinner and auction raised more than $12,000.

"It was the best, by far," said Clayton Cameron, Project manager of the Austin Sawmill/Heritage Parkland Development Project.

The fourth annual event was held April 25 at the Galway Hall, with a sold-out crowd pushing the profits well past the best previous event.

Part of the success of the event was auctioneer Barry McLean, whose sense of humour and good-natured kibitzing with the bidders entertained the 200-plus people in attendance.

Support for this event by local, and not so local, businesses, organizations and individuals has been phenomenal. Bidders and raffle ticket buyers had almost 200 items, ranging from theatre tickets and weekend get-aways, to original artwork and hand crafted items, from which to choose. There truly was something of interest to everyone.

One auction item that brought in a handsome profit was a hand made quilt, selling for $700.

Those who arrived at the Galway Hall early were entertained by Don Wright and Vivian Hetherington, whose musical talents were appreciated.

The roast beef dinner was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 441, Kinmount.

Proceeds from the event will go toward shoreline stabilization at the park, enhancement of the main street of Kinmount and a reserve fund, which will eventually be used to restore the old Austin Sawmill to operating condition.

The event is organized by the Kinmount Committee for Planning and Economic Development. Committee members expressed their appreciation to all those who donated products and services for the event, as well as those who attended and opened their wallets for the cause.

Support growing for Minden project

Artist chosen for first Minden mural

by Ariel White

The future is beginning to look picture perfect for the Minden Mural Committee, as more service groups and local residents pitch in to paint the town.

Mural Committee member Larry Hodgson is extremely excited about the progress the project has made. Thanks to donations of time, materials and money, the mural project has begun. "We are really looking forward to making a big splash with this first mural," said Hodgson. "We are really enthusiastic about this. It's great to have people come to us and ask about helping out."

Hodgson said that he has never worked on a committee where people actually approached him to help rather than the committee searching for help. "I have never had a response like this before on a project," said Hodgson.

The Rotary Club of Minden has donated $1,000 to the Mural Committee, to get the project off the ground and onto the wall. As well, Brian Smith of BKS Carpentry is providing his time, trucks and crew at cost to install the wooden strapping and the marine plywood base on which the mural will be painted.

It has been discovered with murals

around the world that when painted directly onto the surface of a building, they begin to deteriorate rapidly.

Minden Home Hardware has also made a sizeable contribution. The Pentney family is supplying all of the materials for the mural at their cost. The Haliburton Chamber of Commerce has also let the committee use part of its office space and has fully endorsed the project.

The first mural will be located at The Times office at 134 Main Street. The mural will be 12 feet high by 60 feet long. Local artist John Lennard has been chosen to paint it.

Lennard has lived in the area for about seven years and has cottaged in Haliburton County since 1950. According to Larry Hodgson, Lennard has a crucial role to play in the development of the mural. "We felt it was important to use a local artist who had a sense of the area," said Hodgson.

The mural committee will be conducting a lengthier search for the artist for the next project. It was felt that it was necessary to get this project underway as quickly as possible.

Now that the mural is underway, it is anticipated that the painting will be complete in July. The project is already a week ahead of the target for artist selection and three weeks ahead on construction. Visitors to this year's Minden Canada Day festivities will be able to watch the mural as it comes to life.

According to Larry Hodgson, he has had only positive responses to the project. "We haven't had anyone say that this isn't a good idea. This is a great time for a project like this," said Hodgson. Although the final concept has yet to be nailed down, it is expected that the mural will depict an historical theme from the area.

Landmarks will identify the artistic side of the Highlands

by Ariel White

The rocks and granite that give Haliburton Highlands its rugged beauty, will likely be used for part of the sculptural landmarks project of the Haliburton County Development Corporations Arts Committee.

At a meeting in Minden on April 25, a group of area residents discussed ideas and suggestions regarding what type of sculptural icons would best represent Haliburton County.

The Arts committee is hoping that the sculptural landmark project will unify the county and identify it as an area known for its visual arts. The committee has determined that the first two projects will be in Haliburton and Minden. As the project gains momentum, it is hoped that it will expand into West Guilford, Lutterworth and Dorset.

The meeting was chaired by John Leonard, an artist known for his work with the Haliburton School of Fine Arts. Leonard has an international reputation and his work has been displayed around the world. He has also cottaged in the area for 27 years.

According to Leonard the sculptures should be inspiring as a piece, as well as help define the Haliburton County area as a distinct district for the visual arts. "We wanted the community to see some sculpture, but sculpture that would visibly acclaim the arts in Haliburton," said Leonard.

The artist is probably best known for his stone inukshuk that stands in front of the Haliburton campus of Sir Sandford Fleming College.

During the meetings held in Haliburton and Minden, it was determined that both projects would probably revolve around stone as it is an abundant resource. Nine residents attended the Minden meeting including Reeve Jean Anthon. After discussing the possibilities of what type of materials should be used in the piece, stone was determined to be an excellent representative of the natural landscape.

Reeve Anthon suggested that the group could find a large amount of readily available stone from the Minden Business Park. Anthon stated that the stone could be transported to any site chosen for the project.

The committee had travelled through Minden looking for various sites that could be used for the project and committee member Barb Bolin, suggested the area of grass, just over the bridge where North Water Street meets Main Street. Reeve Anthon noted that although there was municipal space available at that area, it may raise concerns about driver visibility on the corner.

In the end, the meeting generated dozens of ideas for the sculpture. It was determined that the Minden project would have an historical theme or element. The group will use stone and metal to depict an image that is representative of the area.

Each project will have a common focus with a crafted logo. A stylized "VA" for visual arts, was designed by Roy Truchan and will be created and cast by School of Fine Arts Instructor Jane Agnew.

The Landmark project is unique in its approach in that the pieces will not only be created by a local artist but also by interested individuals in the community. Anyone interested in lending a hand in creating one of the pieces is invited to become involved.

New "Shepherd" for Anglican flock

by Elizabeth Dunkley

A new priest has come to Minden to take over for Reverend Brian Parker. Reverend Roy Shepherd will be conducting services for the Anglican Parish of Minden/Kinmount on an interim basis. He has been here since April 15 and will continue to serve until a new priest is found, probably in five or six months.

Reverend Roy Shepherd was born in England and moved to Montreal as a young child. He attended McGill University where he earned an honours degree in sociology. While enrolled in school, Rev. Shepherd enlisted in the Royal Canadian Navy in 1942 and was discharged in 1945 as a sub-lieutenant.

After attending McGill, Rev. Shepherd enrolled in Sir George Williams College, also in Montreal, and later at the University of Toronto, where he took courses in group work theory and community development.

Following his stint at school, Rev. Shepherd joined the business world and remained there for 30 years, working at various jobs, with most of the time spent in marketing.

It wasn't until the age of 58, that Rev. Shepherd decided to become a priest. He went back to McGill in 1983 to study for his degree in Theology, graduating in 1989 from Wilfred Laurier University. During his schooling, and until 1992, he was a pastor at various churches. It was then that he retired and began wintering in Sarasota, Florida, where he was also an assisting priest. Since his retirement he has chosen to provide interim services for parishes temporarily without a priest.

"Doing interim work, you never know what you are going to get," said Rev. Shepherd. "I never know where I will end up."

Rev. Shepherd's job is to fill-in for five to seven months when a priest has left a parish. He helps the people in the parish through the transition, until the selection committee has found a new priest. The committee assesses the needs of the parish and selects a priest accordingly.

"When a priest leaves there is a period of time before a new one is found," said Rev. Shepherd. "I am trained to work with people to move through that transition."

He likes it because he gets to see more of the country. This is his first posting to "cottage country". He likes Minden but could do without the blackflies. Rev. Shepherd currently lives in Scarborough with his wife, but spends Wednesday to Sunday at the rectory, beside St. Paul's.

Rev. Shepherd has his hands full with the four churches in the Parish. He holds services at St. John's in Irondale, St. Peter's in Maple Lake, St. James in Kinmount and St. Paul's in Minden. The Minden church is currently undergoing renovations. Two years ago the church was inspected and it was deemed that the structure was unsafe. The foundation is being rebuilt and there is also work being done on the roof.

Reverend Roy Shepherd has taken over the four point Anglican charge on an interim basis until a permanent replacement can be found for Reverend Brian Parker.

"We would hope to have a grand re-opening service by mid to the end of June," said Rev. Shepherd.

Trails development back on track

All trails lead to the Haliburton Highlands. This is the hope of the Haliburton County Development Corporation's Trails and Tours Committee, which met last Thursday to discuss the possibility of a comprehensive multi-use trail system throughout the county.

Over 30 interested people attended the Trails and Tours meeting at Hart Lodge. The committee is hoping to start where the 1994/95 Haliburton County Trails and Tours Network Strategy left off. This comprehensive study outlined the strengths and weaknesses of the existing trail systems as well as the objectives of any future projects.

Trails and Tours Chairman Don Gage feels that the timing of this project is right and that it would only benefit the community. "I think that this is something that we should be doing in Haliburton County," said Gage.

One of the problems associated with the construction of a trail system in Haliburton County is the amount of money required to create a quality operation. Al McPherson of Sir Sandford Fleming College's Ecotourism Management program spoke on how a trail system can increase economic development in a community as well as create an area for outdoor activity for both tourists and local residents.

"We have the ideas to move with here," said McPherson. "The dilemma is money. But there are economics, there are jobs and prosperity with trails, believe me." McPherson mentioned several benefits of installing the trail system including an increase in private property values, an increase in expenditures by both tourists and local residents, special events promotions, and even corporate relocation.

He is very excited about the prospect of the trail system including a four county trail stretching through Victoria, Haliburton, Peterborough and Hastings Counties. "All trails lead to Haliburton, they really do," said McPherson. "I want to see this work. You are more ready than anywhere else."

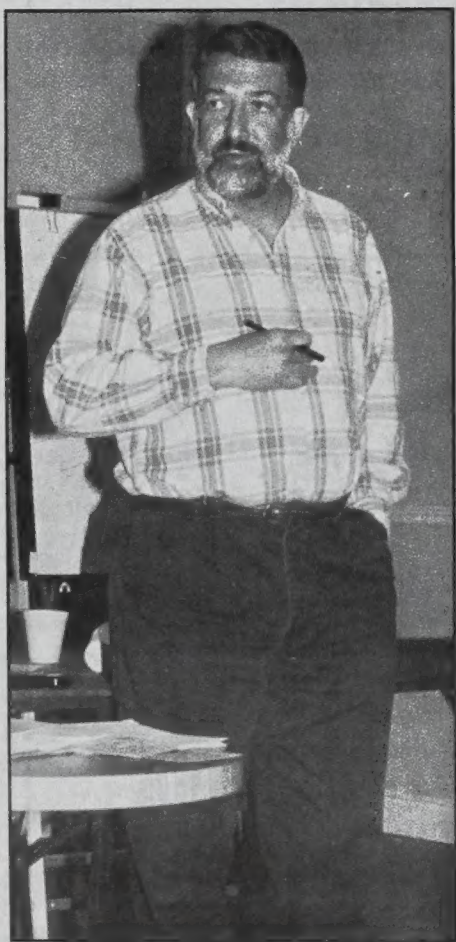

Jim Blake reviewed the Haliburton Trails and Tours Network Strategy and went over some of the highlights of the study. He emphasized several of the key points of the study including local attractions, existing trails and the natural resources of the area.

Blake stressed the priorities outlined in the review, which included hiring a full time trail co-ordinator and a strong trail society, much like the Trails and Tours Committee. It was also felt that more trailheads or areas that define the beginning or conclusion of a trail should be considered as well as improved signage and brochures for existing trails.

One of the most important aspects of improving the trail system in the area was the promotion of the Victoria Railway trail, that stretches from Kinmount to Haliburton. Blake stressed that this could be developed into a signature trail that could attract a large number of hiking enthusiasts.

The Trails and Tours Committee is now beginning to gather steam to get the trail project underway. It has received a small amount of funding from the Haliburton County Development Corporation to help move the work along.

Chairman Don Gage also used the meeting as a chance to announce that the group has just received funding in the amount of $25,000, from Human Resources Development Canada, which Gage hopes will go towards hiring a trail co-ordinator.

Trails and Tours Chairman Don Gage, owner of Willow Beach Cottages, discusses some of the options for trails in Haliburton County, at a meeting held recently at Hart Lodge.

Man charged following raid on Dorset home

The Kawartha Combined Forces Drug Unit, in association with the Minden OPP executed a Controlled Drug and Substance Act search warrant at a house in Dorset on April 24.

The search resulted in the discovery of 160 marijuana plants with an estimated value of $80,000.

Also seized was a quantity of hydroponics growing equipment and a firearm. Charges of Production 7(1) CDSA and a firearms offence are now pending on Sherborne township resident Chris Roper aged 39.

Debating our children's future

Editorial

The debate engendered by the Lands for Life process, which the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources has initiated, appears to be generating more heat than light.

The forum was created to re-examine the use being made of Ontario's Crown Lands and to help set policies and guidelines to serve the province well into the next century. Through a series of public meetings or round-table discussions held across the province, including one here in the Highlands, the major stakeholders and the general public have been encouraged to make their views known on what should and should not be allowed to take place on land owned by the people of Ontario.

The underlying premise that the owners of the land should have a say in its future was an admirable one, even though initially cynics viewed the process as a ploy by the current government to give extraction industries, such as mining and forestry, greater access to the resources currently beyond their reach. However, since the process began, the views of the industrial sector have been overshadowed by an increasingly bitter confrontation between two other players: those who describe themselves as naturalists and those who fear the loss of access to the recreational potential of the Crown Land. As the process has moved closer to its conclusion, the intensity of the debate has increased to the point where these two groups have staked out intractable positions. The debate, if it can still be called that, has resulted in a polarization that has left both factions hurling charges and counter charges that, in most cases, have little to do with reality.

As the Lands for Life process moves toward a conclusion, it is certain that both factions will have to find some common ground in their approach to developing government policy. If they don't, it is likely both will find themselves on the short end of a new approach that will satisfy neither group's objectives and could in fact leave the door open for the unfettered industrialization of this commonly held resource.

Ontario's Crown Land is a heritage we all hold in trust for our grandchildren's children. It is time the groups who want to develop guidelines for its use recognize and honour that pledge to our future generations.

The forest for the trees

Letters

Editor:

Thank you for allowing space a few weeks ago to print my letter sent to Mr. Bob Gray, Chairman of the Lands For Life Round Table.

The purpose was to create some interest in the process. It worked.

I recently chaired a public meeting on Lands For Life on behalf of the Haliburton

Highlands Outdoors Association. The circulated responses of the Partnership of Public Lands (naturalists) and the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters were presented. Some insight was also presented as to the possible socio-economic effects on communities. The intent was not to create "intolerant attitudes", but to keep our communities strong and viable.

Too often we cannot see the forest for the trees. I understand we have saved the seals. But did we consider the socio-economic effects on isolated communities on how saving the seals has damaged the cod stock.

Trapping and hunting, through regulations, has maintained a healthy wildlife balance, plus supplying hours of leisure time. Paddling a canoe across a lake in a newly created natural heritage area has no immediate effects on the environment. But is no interaction with the surrounding area good?

Mental pictures can be created of clear cuts with mud flowing down creeks caused by poor forestry. In reality, on Crown Land, logging is done under government guidelines. All one has to do is inquire and see what lengths the forestry industry goes through to maintain sustainable forests and wildlife habitat areas.

In order to arrive at proper consensus we should all try to present accurate facts.

Larry Hewitt,
Haliburton Highlands, Outdoors Association.

Rock on

Editor:

I have a solution on what should be done with all the boulders from our industrial park! Let's fill the craters in most of our roads, that way we kill two birds with one stone.

I realize council wants to fix everything at once, but how long do we have to wait? When a pothole is fixed it lasts maybe two days and seems worse than before. Could the township not borrow or rent the proper equipment to fix it right the first time? It is likely to cost the same amount of money.

(By proper equipment I mean something other than a truck to pack in fill.)

The Times is seeking the assistance of its readers in identifying this strangely symmetrical blight infecting what appears to be a balsam tree on County Road 18. The blight looks like a zipper running in an almost straight line up the side of the tree. Any assistance in identifying it would be appreciated.

And now a word from our.....

The power of movies to make us want almost any product is a life-style development that says something about us.

New York Times

I know I must be the last one on my block, but I've just seen a movie called Tomorrow Never Dies.

Correction: I've just seen a video advertising catalogue called Tomorrow Never Dies. It stars Hollywood Pretty Boy Pierce Brosnan as James Bond — and more brand name products than you'd find in the West Edmonton Mall.

As Bond, Brosnan drives a hyper-gadged BMW. His martinis (shaken...not stirred) are made with Smirnoff vodka. He tells the time by looking at his Omega wristwatch.

And so on. As a matter of fact, the most enjoyable way to watch this otherwise forgettable spool of celluloid fluff is to play "Spot the Tie-in". — See how many brand names you can spot and speculate with your date about how many millions they paid to have their products appear in a Bond movie.

But it's not just movies. I read in a New York magazine that Kurt Vonnegut, one of my favourite authors, is now in the beer business. He's putting out a vanity brew with his mug pasted on the label and called "Kurt's Mile-High Malt".

What next — Farley Mowat opens a bakery to market his new line of stone-ground bread — Farley's Barley?

Advertising is everywhere you look; and it's there whether you like it or not. There was a time when you could choose to avoid ads by closing the magazine, switching off the television or throwing a book at the radio, but alas, not anymore. In New York, advertisers are using light beams to cast images of logos and ads onto Manhattan sidewalks. Advertisers love it because it's cheap and inescapable. Critics hate it for the same reasons. "This is colonizing your cornea for advertising" says author James Twitchell. "What's the advantage you're getting from somebody mucking up your public space?"

Would that it were only sidewalks. I read also that there are plans afoot — "though not approved, so far — to have NASA launch what amount to huge discs into orbit around the earth. Discs which would, for those who could afford the rates, become giant floating billboards, exhorting us to Wear Nikes! or Drink Sprite! — 24 hours a day.

"Isn't that a beautiful full moon tonight darling?"

"Yeah...and that Windows '95 ad is pretty nice too."

You have to wonder when, if ever, human beings are going to turn on these relentless, money-grubbing eroders of peace and quiet and snarl "Get the @%*& outta my face!"

Perhaps it's already happening. Recently, Mike Cameron, a 19-year-old high school senior in Evans, Georgia was suspended from school by the principal.

His crime? Living in Evans, Georgia, really. Evans, you see, is only an hour or so east of Atlanta, Georgia — and Atlanta is the world headquarters of Coca Cola. The staff of Greenbrier High School — good corporate forelock-tuggers that they are — decided to have a (I am not making this up) Coke In Education Day, in which they would honour Coca Cola executives by, among other things, having the entire student body wear shirts with the Coca Cola emblem emblazoned on them.

At the conclusion of the celebrations the student body was to swarm en masse on the school football field in such a way as to spell out C O K E for the visiting Atlanta poobahs.

Which is where Mike Cameron threw a bottle cap in the works. He showed up in a shirt that featured — gasp! — the Pepsi logo. Cameron was immediately hauled off to the principal's office, told by the principal that he "might have cost the school ten grand." and sent home under suspension.

Mike Cameron may be persona non grata with the principal of Greenbrier high school but he's a hero to me. A trailblazer for the faceless flocks of consumer sheep that seldom utter a bleat. A guy with the gonads to stand up and say "I've had enough".

Stephen Leacock once defined advertising as "the science of arresting human intelligence long enough to get money from it."

Perhaps we're seeing the first signs that human intelligence is getting sick and tired of being under arrest.

New sign policy explained to area merchants

And the signs they are a changing...

Ontario's new tourist sign provider, Canadian TODS Limited held an information session last week to review the modifications and lengthy process of changing to the province's new system of tourist signs.

Several local resort operators, artisans and other business owners met with Canadians TODS Limited Account Executive Shannon Bateman last week to discuss the various options available to Haliburton County tourist attractions. The meeting was organized by the Haliburton County Development Corporation's Arts Committee.

The provincial government privatized the sales and placement of tourist signage, under an agreement with the Ministries of Transportation and Economic Development Trade and Tourism. After a tender was issued, Canadian TODS Limited, based in Woodbridge, Ontario, was given the job of replacing all existing provincial tourist signage with the new blue and white Ontario logo signs. The project began in the spring of 1997, but has been delayed for months due to the downloading of provincially controlled roads to the municipalities. According to Bateman, at this point in

by Times Staff

the sales campaign, she has only been able to complete about one third of her sales area, which runs from Peterborough, Muskoka District to Bancroft. "We basically started from scratch, after the downloading," said Bateman.

The new blue signs are available to any accommodation property or attraction that meets the stringent criteria. Once this standard has been recognized, approval must be received from the Ministry of Transportation, to ensure that the signs do not impede driving safety. If any sign is to be placed on a municipal road, an agreement must be in place between the municipality and Canadian TODS Limited.

The purchasing of the signs has become a very lengthy process. Dennis Casey of Birch Point Lodge purchased and paid for his signs eight months ago and they have not yet been installed. According to Bateman, it will take approximately four months before the paperwork is completed on any sign purchased at this time.

It was suggested that one option for area artisans is to join forces and create a trail of signs that would guide tourists on a specific route, in this case to include various workshops and studios on the Haliburton County Fall Studio Tour. Usually the signage required for this would be used for a circle tour or a specific tourism area, such as the Niagara wine region. This type of signage piqued the interest of many of the artisans present at the meeting. Shannon Bateman stated that she would be meeting with representatives from the Ministry of Economic Development, Trade and Tourism to discuss the possibility of this type of tour route.

Minden pairs sweep Mr. and Mrs. Tournament

by Maurice Boyd

Minden County Bowling Centre was buzzing with activity on Sunday, May 3, with two 1000 Lakes Bowling Association tournaments taking place. The His and Her Tournament began at 10 a.m. with six couples from Fenelon Falls, five from Lindsay and six from Minden participating.

This was a three-game, pins-over-average tournament. All 34 bowlers had great games and lots of fun. And fun is what it's all about.

The Minden team of Shirley Irwin and Addie Dykstra finished in first place, with an excellent score of plus 216.

Placing second was the Fenelon Falls team of Audra Boldt and Wally Everett, with plus 208.

Minden's Joan Rivard and Ed Cox placed a very close third, with plus 207.

This was a closely matched group of bowlers, as the scores indicate.

Participants in the Mr. and Mrs. tournament took to the alleys at 1 p.m. There were five couples from Fenelon Falls, three from Lindsay and eight from Minden. The format was the same as the earlier tournament — three games, pins-over-average. The Mr. and Mrs. Tournament featured some great action and the Minden teams were superb. Hometown teams took all three of the top prizes.

Finishing first was the team of Marylou and Carl Packard, with an outstanding plus 383. Eleanor and Ray Lymer were second with a plus 337 and third went to Shirley and John Irwin with a plus 300.

The Minden County 5 Pin Bowlers' Association congratulates and thanks all the bowlers who participated in these tournaments. The Minden bowlers deserve a round of applause for winning five of the six prizes.

The president of the 1000 Lakes Bowling Association, Jackie Hawkins, who was in charge of the day's activities, congratulated and thanked the Minden bowlers for their participation and hospitality. She thanked Michelle and Scott Moore for hosting these tournaments and commended them on their great facilities.

The Flying Dutchman team won the Thursday Afternoon Seniors League championship. The team consisted of Carolyn Beer, Mary McCutcheon, Maurice Boyd, Addie Dykstra and Marg Albers.

Fred's Folly won the consolation title. The team includes Fred Knight, Ivy Bolton, John Irwin, Alice Smallwood and Millie Boskett.

Junior golfers will be back on the links at Beaverbrook this week

Junior Golf is returning to Beaverbrook Golf Club beginning this Wednesday and to get the program off to the right start, a special clinic will be held just prior to tee off. Participants will be given instruction on rules and conduct and, for the first couple of weeks, will be 'escorted' around the golf course. Committee Chairman Jamie Colliss is looking for experienced golfers to volunteer as chaperons.

The clinic will be held between 5 and 5:30 p.m. with tee-off times reserved for the juniors starting at 6 p.m. each Wednesday. Beaverbrook has put together a special rate for the kids, $80 for 10 - 9 hole rounds each Wednesday evening, available to juniors 16 years old and under.

Another hockey season ends

The ice may be long gone from the arena floor, but the hockey season in Minden didn't come to an official end until last Sunday May 3. The Minden Minor Hockey Association paid tribute to the players, coaches, organizers and volunteers at its annual end of the year banquet held at the Minden Community Centre.

Each of the teams were honoured for their participation during the past season. As well the many parent volunteers who helped make the season a success were recognized. Among those were retiring president of the association Cathy Anderson, who is stepping down after many of service. She thanked the members of the association for their support and the players for giving their all to the game.

Cathy Anderson: Retiring president and executive member.

Doug Kernohan: New president and Garth Gammon Award recipient.

Incoming president Doug Kernohan was presented with the Garth Gammon award for being an enthusiastic supporter of Minden Minor Hockey since 1985, including many terms on the ex-

Tribute was also paid to the association's treasurer, bookkeeper, "and the person who kept everyone in line," Lori Danilko. As well, two faithful fans and boosters, Lloyd and Ruth Harrison were recognized for their dedication to the sport with a pair of season passes for next year.

David Hollows received the Coach of the Year award. The audience was told that even though it was his first year behind the bench, but he demonstrated great leadership and took his team to the Bantam semi-finals.

The new executive for the coming year will include: president Doug Kernohan with Lori Danilko, Debbie Beer, Brock Upton, Steve Crowe and Jody Joanu.

(Team photos taken during the banquet will appear in next week's edition of The Times.)

Contract let for new school

If all goes according to plan in Haliburton, by Christmas 1999 there will be a new school in town. The tender has been approved for the new Stuart Baker Elementary School and the project is already underway.

The Trillium Lakelands District School Board approved the tender submitted by WS Morgan Construction Limited. The estimated cost of the new school is $2,134,200. The school will be located next to the J.D. Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton.

The Stuart Baker School will replace Victoria Street School, which was constructed in 1923. Due to space constraints, safety concerns and the location next to the flood plain, it was determined that a new school was needed. The school will house classes up to grade two. Originally it was to have grade three classes, but now that the school board has determined it will implement a junior kindergarten program, it will have to be accommodated in the new school.

The new building will contain nine classrooms, a library and seminar room, play room, staff room, and reception area. The school board will be holding a sod turning ceremony to commemorate the start of construction of the Stuart Baker Elementary School on Wednesday, May 13 at 1:00 pm.

- * Drivers must wear shoes during the competition.

* A headrest, capable of restraining any sudden backward movement of the head, is required.

* Wheels may be between six and 12 inches in diameter and must have rubber tires. The wheels must be of sturdy construction.

Theatre display

In an effort to spread the word about the new Performing Arts Centre to be built at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, David Pequengnat, and Nona Lynn Philp created a store-front display in the former Northland Footwear building. The display promotes the seat "sale" which has been used to help fund the renovation to the high school's old gym. John and Minnie Pentney provided the space for the display. Architect drawings on the opposite page provide an idea of how the performing arts space could look when completed.

Performing Arts Centre scheduled for fall start

This architect's sketch illustrates how the new performing arts centre will be constructed in the old gymnasium at the high school. The main lobby (at the bottom) has been enlarged, with the elimination of the dressing rooms and offices. To the left is the school's cafeteria which will be separated from the theatre by a solid wall. The illustration below shows how the seating has been raked to improve the sight lines. The stage manager and lighting director's booths are at the right, behind the audience. The stage has been lowered to almost the floor level.

Government program is right on target: Hodgson

Our government's 1998 budget reflects our commitment to growth and new opportunities in Ontario.

We are on track. We are eliminating the deficit, creating jobs, supporting priority services such as education and health care, expanding work for welfare, and lowering taxes.

For three years, all Ontarians have worked together to renew the foundations of our province's economy. This effort has required tough decisions and patience, but it is paying off. Ontario has the fastest job creation rate in Canada.

From February 1997 to February 1998, 265,000 net new private sector jobs were created in Ontario – the greatest job growth in a 12 month period in Ontario's history.

Tax cuts are helping create these jobs. We have stimulated spending by putting more money into people's pockets. Our economy is growing, as Ontario's unemployment rate dropped again in March to 7.4 per cent.

Our budget includes another 36 tax

Ridgewood recyclers

Recycled plastic will be returned as a bench

— Submitted —

The goal of the International School Peace Gardens, is for every school in the world to have dedicated a "Peace Tree, Peace Garden, or Peace Grove" as a strategy for safer schools by the end of the year 2000. Schools have been asked to create "Dream Benches" in their Peace Gardens or Groves as a millennium project.

For Earth Week, the Green Team of Ridgewood Public School announced that Mr. Brian Duffy of Canadian Plastic Lumber in Lindsay, has donated Plasboard Lumber to Brooke Taylor, of Taylor Recycled Products. Taylor will be making a bench to donate to our school which we will use as our Peace Bench.

Plasboard is 100 per cent recycled and the Canadian Plastic Lumber Company uses over 4,000,000 pounds of recycled plastics destined for landfill annually. Plasboard is non-toxic, chemical resistant and does not contain any preservatives which will harm the environment. This makes it ideal for our schoolyard.

The students of Ridgewood and the Senior Citizens of Coboconk are busy collecting #2, #4, #5 and #7 plastics. This plastic will be sent to C.P.L. to be made into Plasboard and then to Taylor Recycled Products to be made into a bench.

Parents Launa Lewis, Mike Third, Eleanor Reed and Suzanna Maltby have donated their time to take the plastics to C.P.L.

Every Friday until May 29, plastic may be dropped off at the school.

cuts, for a total of 66 tax cuts in our first three budgets. This includes the final phase of our promised 30 per cent cut to provincial income taxes.

We will implement the last installment of the tax cut six months

Queen's Park Report

by Chris Hodgson, MPP

ahead of schedule, on July 1 of this year. Most of the tax reduction will go to the nearly three million middle-income taxpayers in this province, who earn between $25,000 and $75,000.

Locally, the tax cut – when fully implemented – means $20.5 million will stay within Victoria County, while $3.5 million will stay in Haliburton County.

We are also on target to balancing Ontario's books. The 1997-98 deficit is $5.2 billion, almost $1.4 billion ahead of our target. The deficit for 1998-99 is $4.2 billion, $600 million lower than expected.

We will eliminate the deficit by the year 2000-01 – a dramatic change from the $11 billion deficit we inherited in 1995.

And we are focusing on Ontario's priorities. We will spend $18.5 billion on health care this year, up $300 million from the spending announced in December 1997. This is the largest health-care budget in Ontario's history.

In Ontario, we will now spend $1,369 annually to meet the health needs of each Ontarian, far more than the $125 per person spent by the federal Liberals.

There's no question Ontario will enter the 21st Century with a confidence many thought impossible just three years ago. Today, Ontarians believe, as we do, that our province is once again the best place in the world to live, work and invest.

More than the competition for these special olympians

by Kristi van Kessel

A local group of bowlers has been training hard for the past two months and is looking to "hustle" its way into the Special Olympics in the year 2000.

"We are a very new team," said Jim Mickle, coach of the "Haliburton Highlands Hustlers."

"The bowling season usually wraps up in about two weeks, so the group will only have a mini-season," the coach explained. Mickle volunteered his coaching services to the group to help give clients of the Haliburton County Association for Community Living a chance to try something new and fun.

"Some of the individuals don't get many opportunities to get out, so this gives them a chance to try something new," said Mickle.

The team consists of eight members who come from all areas of the county, with most from Haliburton. The Hustlers participated in their first invitational bowling match in Peterborough on April 19 and the coach says the team did "extremely well." There were teams from Peterborough, Lindsay, Millbrook, Belleville, Trenton and Picton, and over 100 people participated in the competition.

Many community members donated their time and abilities to the team. RE/MAX Haliburton Highlands Realty Ltd. is the corporate sponsor for the team and supplied them with their shirts which were embroidered by Northern Light Embroidery. The Municipality of Dysart et Al donated the Dyno Bus, Jack Brohm of Northern Ways Buslines donated the fuel and David Freeman of Northern Ways drove the gang to Peterborough on his day off. "We are very fortunate to have these sponsors for our team," said Mickle.

The Haliburton Hustlers team was formed after a grant was received from the Ontario Special Olympics Group and some money was donated from the Haliburton County Association for Community Living's special fund.

This has made it possible for them to take part in events that they might otherwise miss.

The Special Olympics was conceived in 1965 by Canadian Physical Education Professor, Dr. Frank Hayden. His research with people who have a developmental disability proved that they were capable of motor activities and fitness levels far beyond what had been thought.

The first ever Special Olympiad was in Chicago, Illinois in 1968 and since then over two million athletes with developmental disabilities in more than 100 countries have participated in the Special Olympics.

The games provide the athletes with an opportunity to experience and succeed in sport. Special Olympians gain self-confidence and transfer the success from the playing field to become more active citizens in society. Currently, there are 13 official sports in the Special Olympics including: swimming, bowling (5 and 10 pin), floor hockey, powerlifting, soccer, softball, track and field, speed skating, figure skating, alpine skiing, nordic skiing and snowshoeing. They also have programs in other sports such as basketball, rhythmic gymnastics and curling.

Mickle also hopes to see an expansion in the variety of sports in this area in the near future. "We are hoping to get track and field events as well as figure skating into the area," he said.

This is the first year a Special Olympics program has been initiated in the Haliburton Highlands area, explains Sharon Singleton, Community Relations officer for Ontario Special Olympics. "The program just started this year, but there are at least 50 people with developmental disabilities in the area," said Singleton.

The Special Olympics are open to athletes of all ages, but the bowling team is currently an adult team. This will probably change in the near future as organizers hope to get the kids involved as well. "We hope to start a figure skating program and nordic skiing soon," said Singleton. "The athletes don't have to have any experience in the sport, the coaches will train them."

The athletes train each week, year round, in their sport and attend at least one regional competition each year. There are usually one or two other invitational competitions each year. The Provincials are held every other year and the nationals are every four years. The next competition being held is the Spring Games, later this month in Oakville.

The "Hustlers" will not be competing in these games because they were not registered in time. They began their training just two months ago. The group meets every Saturday at the County Bowling Centre in Minden to practise their spares and strikes.

"The Special Olympics are so important because they give the athletes an opportunity to succeed, to learn new skills and to develop self-confidence as well as meeting new friends," said Singleton. "The Special Olympics is more than just sports. It's more meaningful for them. It helps them gain confidence in their own abilities which is great."

The oath for the Special Olympics is "Let me win! But if I cannot win... Let me be brave in the attempt."

There are currently 10,000 athletes and 4,500 volunteers involved in the Special Olympics, but there is always room for more. Volunteers are needed in positions other than coaching, such as team managers, officials, fund-raisers and event organizers. Anyone wishing to learn more about the Special Olympics or to become a volunteer can call Sharon Singleton at 1-888-333-5515 ext. 9511.

Builders show held at Minden Curling Club

The Haliburton Highlands Home Builders Association held its annual Home and Vacation show May 2 and 3 at the Minden Curling Club. This is the sixth year for the show which attracted a steady stream of visitors over the two days. For one young builder, the display of toy trucks and earth moving equipment was a popular attraction while older folks had more serious things on their minds. Below visitor Ross Rigney chats with Bryson Marine owner Mike Bryson.

Request for Proposals (RFP) for Long-Term Care Facility Beds in Haliburton, Northumberland and Victoria Counties.

200 Beds Project LTC98005

The Ontario government has announced a $1.2 billion expansion of Ontario's long-term care system. This initiative is the single biggest investment in the health system in Ontario's history, and includes the addition of 20,000 long-term care facility beds over the next 8 years in communities that need them the most. It represents a major step forward in building a health system that will meet the needs of all Ontarians today and in the future.

For the first phase of this initiative, proposals are invited to develop new long-term care facility beds in Haliburton, Northumberland and Victoria Counties. Proposals must be submitted using a standard proposal form. This form, written instructions and related information can be obtained, beginning May 4, 1998 either by calling (416) 327-0792, or visiting the Ministry of Health Tender Office at:

99 Adesso Drive, Concord, Ontario L4K 3C7

Proposals submitted under this RFP must be received on or before July 31, 1998, 12 noon, at the Tender Office address.

Only those who have requested proposal information, and have pre-registered, will be admitted to a local bidders' meeting to be held on May 21, 1998. Location and timing details will be provided with the proposal package.

At the bidders' meeting, Ministry staff will make a presentation, and answer questions about the proposal process.

Healthy Babies, Healthy Children

Health unit hopes to avert problems with early intervention

The Haliburton Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit is about to deliver a brand new program aimed at new families with babies at risk of health and developmental problems. The province-wide program, although in its infancy, has roots in a very old practice.

All 42 health units in Ontario have instigated the Healthy Babies, Healthy Children Program, in association with the Ministry of Community and Social Services. The goal of the program is to assess pregnant women and new mothers whose children may be at risk of physical, psychosocial, cognitive or communication problems. The hope is that if these complications are detected at an early stage, the children may have a better chance at a healthy start to life.

The province will provide $100,000 in funding for this program for the coming year. It is estimated that out of approximately 1700 babies born in Haliburton, Victoria and Northumberland counties, 425 may be referred through this program. The Healthy Babies program is not intended for all new mothers, but rather for families at risk of potential health or social problems.

Sharon Thompson is the director of public health nursing with the HKPR Health Unit. According to Thompson the origin of this program stems from a long and positive history between public health nurses and the smaller communities in the three county district. "Public health nurses are sort of a catch-all for the screening of health concerns and the advocacy for services. There was a time when there was us, the doctors, the teachers and pastors who would take an interest in children," said Thompson. "Now there are many services available to young families, but in many cases the more services you have, the more difficult they are to access." Thompson believes that there is a positive communication system between parents and public health nurses that other organizations do not have.

The Healthy Babies, Healthy Children program also relies on doctors and hospital staff to initiate the screening process. The physicians will be screening pre-natally as well as after the child has been born. "If there is concern, then with the parents' consent, we step in," said Thompson.

At this point both lay visitors and public health nurses may visit the new or expectant mother to offer support and information on a range of topics including growth and developmental advice, safety, speech, positive discipline and nutrition. If any health problems become evident, then the nurses may make referrals to other services.

The program has been unofficially in place since last fall and has already had 59 referrals. The final stage in implementing the program into its full extent is the hiring of lay visitors, non-professionals who have practical knowledge of child rearing. These lay visitors will provide information, support and basic parenting skills that many new families do not receive.

"In the past, new mothers had family all around them to help. Now people are lucky if they have parents in the same province. There are families that may be new to the area and have few friends let alone a family member to give support. The lay visitors will be like a surrogate grandmother or sister in law that has successfully dealt with parenting problems. They will provide common sense," said Thompson.

Medical Officer of Health for the District, Dr. A. Hukowich is positive about the Healthy Babies, Healthy Children program. "Given the changes in society where women don't have

The Health Unit is currently taking applications for lay visitors, two of whom will be located in Haliburton County. Sharon Thompson said that the program will be on a smaller scale in Haliburton County for two reasons. Primarily, Haliburton has a smaller birth rate than the other two counties. Haliburton also has a well established support system for new families thanks to other organizations, such as SIRCH's birth companion program.

Marg Graham of the Haliburton office of the HKPR Health Unit is coordinating the program in Haliburton County. "This program is designed to be user-friendly," said Graham. "We don't force ourselves into people's homes." The Health Unit hopes to have the entire program running by the end of July.

Request for Proposal Updating, Printing and Distribution of Maps

The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) invites written proposals from qualified persons to provide for the updating, printing and distribution of various maps of the Bancroft Area.

These maps depict a range of information, such as lake names, fish species, Crown land and private land by lot and concessions and the road network.

The ministry is prepared to enter into a sole licence partnership with a business, company or individual(s), subject to acceptance of a proposal which may include one or more than one area map. This partnership has the potential to provide a significant financial return on the initial investment of the partner, while providing a much needed product to the public and the ministry.

Production of the maps must begin on or about the first week of June, 1998. The length of the contract will be five years.

Prospective bidders may view old "print ready" mylars of the map in the ministry's Bancroft District Office, 106 Monck Street, Bancroft, Ontario. This meeting will allow prospective bidders to inspect the mylars and to have staff answer any questions they may have pertaining to the proposal.

Please make arrangements to view the mylars with Charmaine Devitt or Jan Doef at (613) 332-3940.

The man with the moist bald spot

Building supervisor joins the walkers

John Elstone, head custodian at Archie Stouffer Elementary school, starts work at 7:30 a.m. However, he comes in an hour ahead of time.

His reason is fitness. John walks the halls at the school for 45 minutes before his work day starts. This school year he usually does three miles a day. A year ago he regularly cranked off four.

Elstone launched his walking regime shortly after a friend told him, "look at your gut, you're all flab."

That was 18 months ago.

"My blood pressure and cholesterol, both of which were problems, have gone down," he said. "I can see my stomach is tighter and my pants are looser."

Elstone doesn't own scales, so he is not certain exactly how much weight he has lost.

Minden citizens have been walking the halls of Archie Stouffer Elementary School since 1993. Elstone would open the door for them at 7:30 a.m. and then start work.

The 56 year old caretaker joined the walkers in late 1996. Since then his feet have carried him more than 450 miles in the halls of learning.

"I was really glad when last winter came because I started taking my walking seriously again." The summer had made him a bit lazy.

Elstone was planning to take time off work on Friday, May 22, to take part in Minden's fourth annual Sneaker Day. "Everyone should participate for the good of the community and for themselves," he suggests. Unfortunately, he and his wife will be away in Florida.

Minden Sneaker Day walkers will set off on a 2.75 kilometer route beginning at the gazebo beside the Gull River bridge.

Parties of walkers will wind through the new trails to a point on Beaver Creek behind the arena, and then back. For people who do not want to do the whole course, there are several turn around points.

The purpose of Sneaker Day is to encourage people to become more physically fit and healthy through taking a walk. It is neither a fundraiser nor a competition.

"I've become a real believer in this walking," said Elstone. "We need to get more of it going...and I mean strenuous walking like I do. You've got to get the heart thumping to get the benefit to the cardiovascular system. When I walk in the morning, even the bald spot on the top of my head sweats."

Elstone has been head custodian for seven years. Although he has lived in the Highlands for only 15 years, his parents grew up near the Silver Beach Campground.

The Health Unit wants your heart

by Kristi van Kessel

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit is after your heart and will stop at nothing to get it.

But there is no need to worry, it's all for a good cause.

The Health Unit recently launched a program called the Heart Health Project and hopes to have the support of the community in its quest to increase awareness and education about heart health.

The HKPR Health Unit has been working for over 50 years to prevent illness, promote healthier lifestyles and improve everyone's health and well-being. Representatives feel that the Heart Health Project can increase people's knowledge of how to take better care of their hearts.

The proposal to develop the Heart Health Program was approved in October of 1997 and is going to be a five-year initiative. "We really want people to come on board with us," said Margaret Graham, Public Health Nurse with the HKPR Health Unit. "People have to spread the word about this."

The goal of the Heart Health Program is to reduce the incidences of the three modifiable risk factors for cardiovascular disease: physical inactivity, unhealthy eating and smoking. The program hopes to conduct a community needs assessment involving at least 90 community members by the end of June. The assessment will consist of a review of what types of programs and services are available in the community as well as what people think about Heart Health and the three modifiable risk factors.

"Heart disease is the leading cause of death in this country," said Leslie Orpana, Director of Nutrition and Health Promotion for HKPR. "We want to find out what the community thinks about this."

The program was made possible after some money became available from the Ministry of Health for each health unit district in the province. The ministry encouraged health units to develop programs that will increase awareness of heart disease and the risk factors associated with it.

"The Health Units are going to work as partners with the communities because heart disease is preventable," said Orpana. The commitment that communities have to make is a long term one, but it is also one that could save lives.

According to the Heart Health Project Application, cardiovascular disease is the largest cause of death in the HKPR area. In 1994 heart disease claimed the lives of 569 area residents. A 1990 survey shows that 30 per cent of Ontarians smoked and 32 per cent of HKPR residents smoked.

The Ministry of Health has some expectations of the districts which have received the grants. The communities must have a certain amount of in-kind donations from residents. In-kind donations are other than monetary, such as donation of time by volunteers, free rental of space or donation of refreshments for events.

The Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge district is expected to come up with over $74,000 within the year. That amount is split between the three counties fairly. "The partnership with the community is very important," said Amy Bell, co-ordinator of the Heart Health Project. "Community-driven programs are always stronger."

The Ministry of Health's required quota for in-kind donations may not be as hard to reach as it seems. "Haliburton is a very community-minded place," said Orpana. "I don't think it will be that hard."

The Ministry has set amounts of what various in-kind donations are worth. Each hour a volunteer spends on the project, whether it's attending a meeting or giving a presentation, is valued at $10. "The ratio of in-kind donations to money from the province is about two to one," said Bell. If it is an employed person donating his or her time, it is calculated on the basis of their salary.

With almost 60 volunteers throughout the three counties, things are looking promising, but more volunteers are needed in all areas. "I'm very pleased with the response so far," said Orpana. "But we do need more volunteers."

The program hopes to develop a mascot and a slogan to make Heart Health a recognized identity. They also plan to visit schools to teach students about the dangers of smoking. "We want to teach the students as well because they can also pass it on to their parents," said Graham.

While the Lung Association, the Canadian Cancer Society and the Health Unit already conduct programs in the classroom, the Heart Health project is interested in enhancing these programs.

There are also plans to implement presentations to groups such as school councils, teachers and schools boards, promoting QDPE - quality daily physical education. They hope to modify this program to suit a worksite environment as well.

The group also intends to hold supermarket tours where guides will walk through the grocery store with a group of people and explain how to read labels and chose foods that are low-fat, low-salt and high-fibre.

The next event coming up is the "Sneaker Day Walk" on May 22, as part of Summeractive '98. This will be the day that the Heart Health Project is officially launched.

It's the second year the event has been held and organizers are hoping for an even bigger turnout than last year. "It's really an easy and friendly event," said Graham. "It's not stressful at all, it's just a lot of fun." Organizers are urging businesses to initiate an employee challenge and encourage everyone in the office to get out and walk. Anyone who is interested in becoming a volunteer with the Heart Health Project can call Margaret Graham at (705) 457-1391.

Committee will study delivery of federal services in rural Canada

It's a good time to live and work in rural Canada. The federal government is determined that rural residents enjoy the same opportunities and benefits as other Canadians.

Earlier this year, Cabinet endorsed an impact test to measure the effects of federal government policies and legislation on rural residents. The process, called the "rural lens," will help to make sure that federal programs and services are designed with the needs and concerns of rural Canada in mind.

The idea for the impact test arose during public consultations that led to Think Rural, a report of the Standing Committee on Natural Resources. The committee's cross-Canada consultations often heard the view that rural Canada was "out of sight, out of mind" when it came to policy development in Ottawa. The rural lens responds to this concern.

We now have a tool to ensure that when the government is considering policies and initiatives, it recognizes that they may have very different effects on rural and urban areas.

Nearly one-third of Canadians live in rural and remote areas. These areas are made up of small communities, which are not all alike. A fishing community on the Newfoundland coast is very different from the fruit-growing area of the Okanagan. Rural areas located near large cities face different challenges and opportunities than those in more remote regions. These varying needs must be taken into account.

The rural lens will assess the impact of new policies, programs and services on rural Canada, and identify whether they will be accessible in rural areas. The lens will also assess whether the policy allows for flexibility to local needs and concerns.

Here are some of the kinds of questions that we will be asking:

- What impacts - on investment, employment or opportunities for youth, for example - could this policy have on rural Canada?

- Will the policy create overlap or duplication with existing programs?

- Will the programs or services be delivered in a way that is appropriate to rural Canada and accessible to rural residents?

- Is there enough flexibility to allow for regional variation or decision-making at a local level?

- How could the policy be fine tuned to accommodate the needs identified above?

When he announced the rural lens on February 9, Agriculture and Agri-food Minister Lyle Vancilief, the lead Minister for rural affairs, said, "Rural development happens through many steps and this is one of them. This new process is a starting point that should prove useful in improving the way the government as a whole services rural Canadians."

Members of Parliament from rural Canada are applauding the way the rural lens will make government policy more responsive to their constituents. For example, Larry McCormick, chairman of the National Liberal Rural Caucus, noted one major advantage: "By examining federal initiatives through a rural lens, we will measure the impact on people living in rural and remote areas while appropriate changes can still be made."

The adoption of the rural impact test is part of the federal government's ongoing commitment to build stronger rural communities, by ensuring that federal policies and programs are appropriate for and accessible to rural Canadians.

Ottawa report

by John O'Reilly, MP

Spring welcomed at Staunworth Court

Residents of Staunworth Court have finally agreed that we are into spring - just look at the banks of daffodils and see the tennis players out on the court. Fred Knight is happy to be on the golf course and Brad Trumble is getting better everyday and is soon to return to work at IGA where he has been greatly missed.

Margaret Horsley has had a short visit from her daughter Glenda from "out west", but is hoping for a longer visit in July.

All our residents were sorry to hear Ed and Peg Pettinger had lost their son Peter to a heart attack. Our deepest sympathy is extended to them.

I can't remember who gave us the following poem, but it does speak for most of us here!

I Can't Remember

Just a line to say I'm living,
That I am not among the dead,
Though I'm getting more forgetful
And mixed up in my head.

I've gotten used to my arthritis,
To my dentures I'm resigned.
I can manage my bifocals,
But, oh God, I miss my mind.

For sometimes I can't remember
When I stand at the foot of the stairs,

If I must go up for something
Have I just come down from there.

And, before the fridge so often,
My poor mind is filled with doubt,

Have I just put food away,
Or have I come to take some out.

And, there are times when it is dark,
With my night cap on my head,
I don't know if I'm retiring,
Or just getting out of bed.

So remember that I love you
And wish that you were near,
But now it's nearly mail time,
So I just say, "Good bye Dear"

PS

Here I stand beside my mailbox
With a face so very red,
Instead of mailing you my letter,
I have opened it instead!

Green thumbs at Hyland Crest

A warm hello to all of you. It's time to chat with you once again. Isn't this weather just great? And it is so nice to be getting busier these days, even us.

Last Friday, the first day of May, we welcomed the "Country Canines". Such wonderful dogs. We really appreciate the time they spend here. That afternoon our Happy Hour was much enjoyed with the music of C.M. Musicmakers. The weekend was fairly quiet.

However Saturday brought us a special visitor. A gentleman was here visiting one of the residents, then afterwards proceeded to entertain all of us playing the accordion. It was really great and we hope he will return. We were enjoying the music so much we neglected to find out who he was. We wish to give him our thanks for sharing his time with us. We understand he also plays the fiddle and belongs to the Bobcaygeon Fiddle Club. But as to his name, well that's a mystery. So whoever you are, again our thanks and hope to see you again.

Early on Monday, a group of us travelled to Lindsay for the day. Those who went reported a great day out. A little shopping, enjoyable lunch and time for a good chat. Those of us who remained here joined the Salvation Army in the afternoon. Also on Monday, Roland Sedgewick passed away. Our sympathy to his family and friends. Roland was born and raised in this area, taught school for many years and was a mining engineer. He is survived by his two daughters and grandchildren.

Our chapel service on Tuesday was led by Reverend Shepherd, who is with the Anglican Church on an interim basis. We wish to thank him for filling in at this time. During the service we remembered Nora Groves and her time spent with us.

We had a great time on Wednesday afternoon participating in a discussion; the topic was Mother's Day. What fun, just talking, sharing our memories of mothers, grandmothers and our own stint at mothering. And to top this off we were treated to some absolutely yummy coffee, amaretto almond. Thanks Linda. It's all these little things that add up. That evening, bingo took place and afterwards the players tucked into some homemade bread.

We have a new day visitor. He is a wonderful Sheltie and his name is Seven. Wondering as to his name? Well he just happens to be the seventh member of Gary McKnight's family.

Seven joins us during the day and has already made some fast friends.

The gardening season has begun and some of us have already sowed some seeds. But like all gardeners everywhere, we are wishing for a good rain.

Today our tea party will be hosted by the Minden Legion. We send our thanks to them.

We're busy preparing for our "Hoe-down" on May 30. Have you marked your calendar? Come and join us. There will be wonderful music, dancing and lots to eat! All for $7 per person - what a deal! We still welcome entertainers to join in. If you are interested, call Rob Young at 286-2140.

Around the County Town

by Nora Snyder (call 286-4425)

It was with a shock of awareness that I realized that I have been writing this column for six months. Time does fly; in this case the whole winter.

So much has happened in my life in that time as I know it has in yours. So much has happened in the last week!! So many things that don't get mentioned here because they are too personal or because there just isn't enough space to mention everything or to protect the privacy of others. So much life going on between the lines!!

I did talk to Zoe Chilco last week and her benefit in Toronto to raise money for the Women's Emergency House was a great success, but as we read in last week's paper, it was too late to save the House as it had to close due to lack of funds. It is hard to think of our community without that place of safety for abused women and their children. It is hard to think that perhaps some women will think they have to stay in the abusive situation because there is no place to go. There are other choices such as having a plan prepared on how to leave and where to go when the time is right. No one should stay where it is not safe. I know that is easier said than done. There are so many issues around abuse that make it difficult to get out.

John O'Reilly, Member of Parliament for Victoria/Haliburton, has agreed to walk at Minden's Sneaker Day. O'Reilly, who phoned the organizing committee last week to accept their invitation, will join the citizens of the Minden area on May 22 for the 2.75 kilometer hike. Sneaker Day is staged across Canada to promote better health through physical activity.

Here are a couple more facts about about the benefits of physical activity: participation in regular activity can help to increase self-esteem, improve self-concept, enhance psychological well-being and increase physical competence. If all Canadians were active, savings to the health-care system for heart disease alone would be $776 million a year.

Senior's Bid Euchre at the Minden Legion on May 5, had eight moon shot winners. As Marg said, the Legion won't make much money with that many winners! They were Iris Taylor, Marie Dennie, Jean Scadden, Marg McAfee, Pat Scadden, Helen Lee, Norm Lee and Verna McDonald. The high score winners that day were Georgina Parkes, Norm Lee and Gala Stamp. The hidden score was won by Jack Chilton.

The UCW, welcomes all women to their meeting on May 20 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Don and Bea Berry. Mrs Berry will be in charge of the program.

Minden Seniors Shuffle Board registration will be held on May 13 at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery between 2 and 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The membership age for prospective players has been lowered to 50. The cost of membership is $20. A social membership is also available at $5, which enables the person to attend the end of season banquet. That sounds like a good way to get in some physical activity!!

Last Tuesday at the Lochlin Community Centre, there were some happy winners. Audrey Vick had the woman's high. Men's high scorer was Cec Robinson. Woman's low was Joyce Schellenberg and men's low, Don Curry. Lone hands won by May Hicks and the 50/50 draw by Emily Harvie. The Tuesday evening Euchre night will conclude for the season at the end of May. Therefore there are two more nights at Gelert and one more at Lochlin. Betty Hicks assured me that there would be other news events from their area over the summer. We don't want to lose contact!!

Here are the results of bid euchre played at Stanhope on April 29. High women were Margaret Fletcher with 274, Marion Hill with 271 and Gala Stamp with 250. High men were Jim Skinner with 274, Norm Lee with 271 and Pearl Foster with 255. Bob McConnell won 3 moon shots!! Olive Jones, Katie Parker and Milton Fletcher each won one! The hidden score, 173, was won by Pat Roussel. A big thanks to Lottie as director and to the Skinners for giving Lottie a rest until the fall!!

A very pleasant afternoon is planned for Sunday, May 24, by the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts Social Committee. They are hosting a Musical Tea at the Haliburton Legion from 2 to 4 p.m. Fancy sandwiches and a variety of sweets will complement the musical entertainment. As well plenty of prizes are promised! Tickets ($10) are available at the Rail's End Gallery. Now that sounds like an intriguing afternoon!!

St. Paul's Friendship Club continues its Monday afternoon of Euchre. Last Monday Norm Lee won lone hands. I think Norm's name is the most frequently seen one in this column!! High woman was Laura Carnegie, high man was Jeanne Sears, who also won the 50/50 draw. To the uninitiated it must seem curious that the gender of a person does not seem to matter in whether one wins the high or low woman or man!!!

Bridge at the Stanhope Library on May 5, had seven tables playing, so that meant the room was crowded again! Again, I notice that Ross Fletcher and Stan Hill are not in the winning circle, so I guess that crowding adversely affects their games!! Instead, with honourable mention, was Alex Stevenson; in third was Vange Croucher, who apparently won her points at the expense of Ross by doubling him a few times and winning!! Jim Irwin was second and Mary Stevenson was first. Mary also bid and made a small slam playing with Betty Dicker.

Ken Wallace phoned with the results of the winners at Club 35 last Monday evening. The 50/50 draw was won by Olive Jones; lone hands by Tom Orr; high woman, Helen Windsor; high man, Wally Harpur; low woman, Rhoda Woolner; low man Milton Fletcher; baloney, Harry Randell.

On April 30, they played Euchre again at the Minden Legion. Thank you for the printed results!! A piece of cake reading them!! Most lone hands: women, Verna McDonald; men, Vi Edgson; high score: women, Elaine Blakey; men, Marcel Roussel; low woman, Judy Kent; low man, Jack Chilton. Other prizes were won by Ann Baker, Sherin Brown, Maria Tschida, Ethel Baker, Ed Hisson and Lois Adamson.

The Minden Home and Garden Tour Committee is moving full steam ahead as the members prepare for this year's exciting tour on July 18. There are seven new homes and gardens to intrigue you!! Tickets will be on sale soon. Watch for the time and places!! The sub-title of the tour is "discover our best-kept secrets". We need to discover what we have right at our own doorstep and show ourselves off to all our area visitors!! We have so much to be proud of here in the Minden area and in the whole of the Haliburton Highlands!!

I always worry that there will not be enough to fill this space in the paper but of course you all come forward with all your events to cover and I always seem to find something to write about!!

So another interesting week has evolved in this space and we have things to look forward to. I once had a guest who told me one of her secrets for living. It was--always have something to look forward to!!

Have a good week! I look forward to seeing you here next time!!
